...a "tree shape hobbyist." He constructs walking sticks, furniture, and lamps from roots and unusually formed branches of trees.

He sells his furniture, plus fruit, flowers and other items from his home, about six miles from Appomattox.

Most of his hobby material comes from his 18 acre farm where he grows almost every type of flower and shrub adaptable to this climate.

"Tree Grows In Brooklyn"

The Paradise Tree the tree made famous in the novel, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn", is one of the trees Mr. Smith often uses for his furniture making. On the porch of the Smith home is a many - tooled "monster" made from Paradise tree logs.

Another root formation forms a plant holder in the front yard. Inside are still others — plus lamp bases and accessories offered for sale along with Mr. Smith's annual production of apples, other fruits, and flowers.

"I let Nature do the carving," says he of his unusual hobby. "And I would like to find somebody else who also works with natural wood formations. In all my years I have never met anybody else who does this sort of thing. I certainly would like to correspond with someone who also is a "tree hobbyist."

The Smith living room contains attractive oil paintings, done also by Mr. Smith. His daughter, Mrs. Georgia Schindler, also displays "Godey's Lady's Prints" cut out from a "fashion book" by her grandmother. This same grandmother also sewed coolimes for the Barrymores during their heyday in the theater.

Rebels Take First Loss In Close Game

Roanoke Catholic High of Roanoke upset the Appomattox High School Rebels last Friday night by the score of 14-6. The loss was the first for the previously unbeaten Rebels and marked the first win for the Catholics.

The Rebels jumped out in front first putting together a sustained drive of 65 yards with G. H. Jamerson and Billy Burke eating up most of the yards. Jamerson capped the drive with a classy sprint around end from about three yards out. A Torrence pass failed for the all important extra point. Within a few moments the Rebels were back at it again, this time combining the running of Jamerson and Burke with the fine passing arm of Jimmy Torrence, only to be held on the second yard line by the stubborn Celtics. This defensive stand seemed to furnish all the incentive this Roanoke School needed.

The Celtics took possession on the second yard line and behind the brilliant ball handling of quarterback Buchanan and the tremendous running ability of fullback Jerry Tankersley marched 98 yards with Tankersley going over from the 13 yard just before the half time. The extra point try was good as Tankersley blasted over tackle to put his team ahead 7-6.

After the half time intermission the Celtics were back at it again with Tankersley doing most of the hauling. About midway the third period Tankersley scampered around end for the Celtics second score. The Celtics made it 14-6 as Buchanan handed off to Tackersley for a off tackle slant for the extra point.

Early in the fourth quarter the Rebels tried to muster another drive only to be halted by a holding penalty deep in Roanoke territory.

It was a well played contest by both teams as was witnessed by approximately 800 fans.

One of the most outstanding features of the game was the tremendous line play and blocking of the Roanoke School, as time after time the Celtic backfield ate up huge yardage thru the Rebel line.

No School Friday

All teachers of Appomattox County Schools will be meeting at E. C. Glass High School, Lynchburg tomorrow, Friday. So there's no school for boys and girls while teachers are meeting at the annual District Meeting. VEA.

SAMUEL J. SMITH

Vepco Appoints Lane Successor For Rural Work

Samuel J. Smith, a West Virginia University graduate in agricultural mechanics, has been appointed rural representative for Virginia Electric and Power Company.

He succeeds Kenneth W. Lane, who was recently transferred to Fredericksburg.

The new appointee, a native of Upper Tract, W. Va., will cover the counties of Prince Edward, Appomattox, Cumberland, Amelia and Nottoway. His work will be with rural and farm customers.

Smith is married to the former Stanna Propst, of Franklin, W. Va. and at present resides in South Boston while completing his preliminary training with Vepco.

The family soon will move to Farmville.

Smith's appointment was announced by C. A. Smith, Vepco district manager at South Boston.

Local Red Cross Locates Soldier

Local Red Cross facilities helped to locate Pvt. Lester Goin, called home because of the death of his father, DeWitt Goin, of Appomattox.

Mrs. Dee Moses, Home Service Secy. for the local chapter, put the call through to Washington where it was relayed to Europe through AMCROSS, the telecommunications system for the International Red Cross.

Congressman Watkins Abbitt also assisted in processing the call.

Racing The Stork

Two volunteers from the Rescue Squad answered an early morning call Friday, Sept. 21 and "raced the stork" to a Lynchburg hospital toorthey with a young mother and her husband.

Since their full - time jobs were waiting in Appomattox they didn't linger at the hospital to find out whether it was a "boy" or "girl", but they "did win the race", according to a spokesman for the Squad.

Cooperation Is Key To County Law Enforcement

Three Way Effort Attacks Crime In Appomattox County

"Telephone 352-7123". Those were the simple instructions given to a TIMES inquiry as to what to do about trouble in Appomattox County. These four digits will put the caller in touch with the local State Police and with the state - wide facilities of the Virginia State Police.

A local dispatcher at Division Headquarters on Route 460 can be in instant contact with cruising state police cars, with state headquarters, or any of the six other division headquarters.

Local and County Action

Any local disturbance can be treated by Police Chief H. A. White, ov on a county level by Sheriff Walter S. Conner or his deputy, Charles Rush.

In many instances they work with State Police to apprehend criminals.

Recent Crimes Sited

As examples of cooperation, Captain W. W. Blythe, of the State Police, mentioned Investigator G. S. Cooper, who worked with Connor, Rush, and Chief White in securing clues from the robbery of Seay's American Oil and Gas Station, Appomattox.

Two weeks ago an early morning call from Peyton Seay, owner, brought local and county officers, who then called on Cooper to bring camera, flash bulbs, and fingerprint outfit to the scene. About $200 was stolen after the thief gained entrance to the station by breaking a window and two doors.

Innocent Set Free

The polygraph, or "lie detector" tests given at Division Headquarters help to "nail" the guilty but they also free the innocent. A recent case was Joe Miller, Drake as the result of an infant's death in nearby Evergreen. Miller volunteered for lie detection tests and was set free by Sheriff Connor partly because of the results of these.

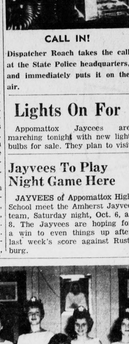
Stolen Car Returned

D. E. Caldwell, Jr., owner and operator of Caldwell's Motor Court gives credit to swift action by State Police in returning a stolen car to guests of the Motel early in September. Not only did they return the car to Appomattox from where it had been abandoned, but also saw to it that repairs were quickly made to the car and the guests sent on their way with as little inconvience as possible. "Naturally, their help to "nab" the guilty but they also free the innocent. A recent case was Joe Miller, Drake as the result of an infant's death in nearby Evergreen. Miller volunteered for lie detection

Local Division chief is Captain Blythe, with Lieutenants J. L. Hedrick and L. E. Thomas. Lt. Hedrick is in charge of desk orders and procedures, Lt. Thomas is supervisor of field activities. L. L. Stanley is area Sergeant in this area. Assisting them are these troopers: Robert G. Netherland, J. A. Crawford, W. W. Wilberger, and E. L. Jones.

At the controls at Division Headquarters are the dispatchers, E. H. Roach, O. L. Watkins, C. M. Snyder, R. I. Scott, Jr., J. L. Elder, John H. Wilson, J. R. Massey, and T. G. Moore.

And helping with office routine are Mrs. Ola C. Morris, Mrs. Peggy W. Rogers, Miss Peggy Garrett, and Mrs. O. C. Osborne.



CALL IN!

Dispatcher Roach takes the call at the State Police headquarters, and immediately puts it on the air.

Lights On For Appomattox

Appomattox Jaycees are marching tonight with new light bulbs for sale. They plan to visit

Jayvees To Play Night Game Here

JAYVEES of Appomattox High School meet the Amherst Jayvee team, Saturday night, Oct. 6, at 8. The Jayvees are hoping for a win to even things up after last week's score against Rustburg.

Coronation Held

"Service" was the theme of a Coronation ceremony at Evergreen Baptist Church September 23. The six girls crowned queens by the pastor, Rev. Virgil Hudson, were: Suzanne Guill, Arlene Paulette, Chris Paulette, Patsy Seay, Bonnie Bruce, and Brenda Grishaw.

The crown - bearers, sisters, brothers or cousins of the queens were: Cindy Guill, E. W. Paulette, Ronnie Campbell, Milton Bruce, Martha Grishaw, and Kathy Paulette.

There was one maiden, Carolyn Hudson, two ladies-in-waiting, Abby Paulette and Leander Hudson.

Music for the program was provided by Mrs. Virgil Hudson. There were songs by the G. A.'s and a solo by Abby Paulette.

Prizes were offered by the Counselor for the best "Life of Christ", this was won by Chris Paulette. Arlene Paulette being second. The girl who first completed the step of queen was Bonnie Bruce and the girl who had made the greatest spiritual progress during the year was Patsy Seay, who accepted Christ as her Savior this fall.

The "Daytime Circle" of the Evergreen W. M. S. sponsers the organization. It presented G. A. pins to the girls.

Coronation Service At Evergreen
